

LONDON'S POLICE SENSATION.

THE CONSTABLE WHO ARRESTED MISS CASS IS DISCHARGED.

The Police take the United Kingdom to find evidence against her. With partial success, though nothing of a criminal nature was discovered.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The failure of the prosecution of Polverina Endacott for trading the character of Miss Cass is a subject of regretful comment among all classes generally, and in the press.

The Pall Mall Gazette, which took a leading part in the crusade against the police methods, illustrated by the Cass arrest, is especially bitter against Stephen, who demanded the evidence against Endacott.

The Gazette says that it may now be accepted as English law that there is no redress for any person accused by a policeman. According to Judge Stephen, remarks the editor, if the vilest man on the face of the earth, he could not be held for perjury, unless the person produced witnesses to sustain his denial. The ordinary rule is that the burden of proof is on the accused, and that the police department are saved from danger of despatch, and this hour vindicates one woman's reputation.

Endacott will, as the result of the decision, be restored to his position and rank in the police force.

The outcome of the case has been unfortunate for Miss Cass in all respects. Though it is conceded that there was no proof of anything improper in her conduct, the evening of her arrest, when she was carrying a bundle for delivery for her employers, was the great reverse of her life.

During her whole life and the result has been the discovery of her history, which have been magnified as much as possible, in order to discredit her before the public.

It is shown that she was a girl who had been in London, though nothing worse than that was proven. The police, without any real basis of fact, had informed that her husband had been in the proceedings, and she was arranged in order to effect medical evidence as to her condition. It is shown, however, by the interest in criticisms of the action of the police, that this line of attack was not a bearing on the real issue and could have no bearing on the right of an officer to make arbitrary arrests of women against whom no evidence could be produced of any crime.

The police certainly have no cause to congratulate themselves as the result of the decision, for much Miss Cass may have been damaged by it.

THE WRECK OF THE VERNON.

The Sole Survivor of the Propeller Tells of the Disaster.

SPRINGFIELD, Wis., Nov. 1.—Up to the arrival of the schooner Pomory, from Chicago, which passed through the bay to-day, it was supposed that not a single survivor was left of the forty or fifty people on board the propeller Vernon, which went down off Sheboygan early last Saturday morning. It is now known, however, that at least one man lives to tell the tale of that terrible night on Lake Michigan. The Pomory has on board the sole survivor of the Vernon, who has been rescued from death, after he had given up all hope of ever again setting his foot upon dry land.

Alfred Stone, of Chicago, one of the Vernon's crew. He had been in the water six hours, exposed to a bitter piercing wind, and without a bite to eat. When the Pomory discovered him on a raft last night, about eight miles from Sheboygan, he was so weak that he could not even get up.

Although still very weak from the effects of his awful experience, Stone was able to make a brief statement of the events of the night. He says that the Vernon was sailing from Chicago, and was carrying a full cargo of lumber, and was accompanied by a full crew of forty or fifty men.

On Saturday night, about eight miles from Sheboygan, the Vernon was struck by a heavy sea, and went down. Stone was the only survivor, and was rescued by the Pomory on Sunday night.

Stone says that the Vernon was a very fine vessel, and was well equipped for the service. He says that the crew was very good, and that the vessel was very comfortable.

EIGHT BURIED TO DEATH.

A MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION IN A ST. LOUIS BUILDING.

A flash, a dull roar, and then a crash which hurled several persons—A disaster which is inexplicable—Eight persons killed.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 1.—A flash followed by a dull roar, and then the crash of walls convulsed the center of this city at a stroke this morning. The disaster, which followed, carried the rumor of the terrible calamity that had befallen three families while wrapped in slumber. An explosion of gasolene in the rear of the cellar of Michael Newman's grocery store, No. 13 South Duval street, had lifted the two-story building from its foundation, and dropped it back again in a mass, beneath which were buried over a dozen persons. They were: Michael Newman, aged 53 years; Mrs. Newman, aged 48 years; Miss Newman, aged 18 years; Nellie Newman, aged 15 years; Katie Newman, aged 11 years; Eddie Newman, aged 10 years; Charles Devereaux, Charles Devereaux, Miss Hattie Brown, Columbus, Ky., buried about the lower limbs; Charles Clifford, Miss Patty Bryant, Mrs. Beatty.

The explosion had scarcely reached the place before a devastating fire swept through the ruins. Aid was quickly on hand, but the confusion was so great that it was impossible to increase with their efforts to relieve the imprisoned victims. The people of the neighborhood, disheartened, many fled, and some of the firemen, who were sent down upon the ruins, failed the efforts of the firemen who had begun the first systematic search for the victims.

But good work was done and then began the search for the dead.

In the corner of the alley, a running through from Fourteenth to Tenth street, and was the north room of the building. The explosion had taken place in the rear of the cellar, and the fire had spread to the upper floors.
